No decision by Nixon yet on House subpoena

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has made no decision yet on the content or form of his reply to a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for 42 taped Watergate conversations, a White House spokesman said today.

Nixon has until Thursday to reply to the subpoena from the impeachment panel.

Gerald L. Warren, deputy press secretary, indicated to reporters that Nixon has been devoting the major portion of his time over the past several days to reaching a decision on what tapes or transcripts he will turn over to the committee.

"The President told me no decisions have been made in terms of the content or form of the reply," Warren said.

Warren said he did not expect an answer to be forthcoming today.

There has been speculation, aided by Nixon's top advisers, that verbatim transcripts but not the actual tapes will be turned over to the committee. In response to a question, Warren declined to say whether the President believed transcripts would satisfy the committee.

"No decisions have been made on this entire matter," said Warren.

He said Nixon, on his return from a weekend at Camp David, met Sunday afternoon with his chief Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair, and the White House counsel, J. Fred Buzhardt, "to give them his thoughts on the manner in which he will respond to the impeachment inquiry."

The committee's subpoena for recordings of 42 meetings may be unenforceable, since both Congress and the President are constitutionally equal branches of government. But now there is another subpoena from Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, returnable May 2.

The subpoenas cover the range of Watergate events, many overlapping and many applying to the critical days in March and April of 1973 when the Watergate cover-up began to fail. They involve conversations between Nixon and his top aides in the White House and Justice Department.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., raised the possibility that no response, or an inadequate one to the two subpoenas might in itself prod the House toward impeachment.

"I continue to see reluctance, dragging of feet, almost what might be considered the hindrance of justice here, an obstruction of justice," Percy said Sunday in a broadcast interview (ABC: "Issues and Answers").

Rep. Peter W. Rodino, DN.J., the House Judiciary chairman, told UPI over the weekend he was determined to avoid such a confrontation.

Deadlines given for city sewage minerals' problem

By STEVE LA RUE
City Editor

Lompoc has until January, 1976, to thin dissolved sewage minerals down to stae maximums. Depending on city Council action, this could give area commercial salt dischargers a February 1, 1975 deadline to start dumping their waste salts somewhere else.

The mineral deadline decision came down Friday afternoon from the Regional Water Quality Control Board at their meeting in Monterey. The target of the state sewage mineral regulations is the accumulation of dissolved minerals in water supplies throughout the state, such as the Lompoc water basin. Studies have shown the salt content of Lompoc water rising in some areas, with a so far undetermined impact on agriculture and health. Salts in this meaning indicates a whole realm of dissolved chemicals, including chlorine, sulfates, Sodium, Magnesium, Boron, and others. Studies documenting the elevation of dissolved minerals in the Lompoc Valley and their impact will not be released by the U. S. Geological survey for perhaps another year.

The board's mineral source control decision was a compromise. Lompoc, through City Administrative Officer Gene Wahlers, requested that the salt deadline be pushed back to June 1, 1977. The State panel decided to give Lompoc only another six months.

But the state body also gave the city until July 1974 to enact a mineral source control ordinance, a law which would prohibit large discharges of salt into valley soil and, therefore into the water basin.

Wahlers will produce a draft ordinance at the council's May 7 meeting. The proposed law, he said, would not include a provision for removing home self-regenerating water softeners which, according to a consultants' study, dumps 44,300 pounds of all types of salt into the water basin monthly.

The draft ordinance will focus on the city's commercial and industrial salt dischargers of over 1,000 pounds monthly, Wahlers said.

"Based on earlier surveys," he said, "the industrial and commercial discharges in the city account for 75-80 per cent. It seems to me that before we should even consider a step which would involve home units that we first try to solve the problem as easily as possible."

The administrator suggested this time table: his source control ordinance will be presented to the City Council at their May 7 meeting and, if its first reading is passed at that time, could legally be adopted May 21 and become effective June 31, ahead of the July deadline.

Industrial salt dumpers would have until February 1, 1975 to develop procedures to discharge their salt wastes out of town. At this date, a study and evaluation period on local salt concentrations would begin.

Local companies dumping in excess of 1,000 pounds of salt into the water basin monthly include Culligan Water Conditioning (50,000), Rayne Water Conditioning (12,600), Red Star Industrial Laundry (8,000) and Lompoc District Hospital (1,500).

Sawhill suggests taxing profits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Taxing oil industry profits, and not regulating its prices, is the way out of the nation's energy problem, new energy chief John C. Sawhill said today.

The head of the Federal Energy Office testified before the Senate Commerce Committee on a bill to control oil and gas prices and establish a federal corporation in competition with energy firms.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., said the law is needed because "only one industrialized country in the world leaves itself to the mercies of a few big international oil companies and that is the United States."

Sawhill testified, "where price elicits new supply, it serves a useful economic function and benefits consumers with increased supply, which ultimately results in lower prices...thus where income redistribution from producer to consumer is still desired, we favor the use of taxation rather than regulation, as do most economists."

New York explosion injures 82 persons

NEW YORK (UPI) — An explosion and fire, apparently caused by a gas leak, ripped through a commercial building today and severely damaged an adjacent apartment building one block from the United Nations.

The blast shortly before 7 a.m. EDT, about an hour before the morning rush hour, severely damaged the two buildings and blew out windows in the east midtown area between Second and First avenues.

A check showed 82 persons were hospitalized, at least eight in serious or critical condition. Twenty-three others were treated at the scene.

Most of the injured came from the Envoy Towers, a residential building adjoining the commercial structure where the blast occurred.

Forty-fifth and 46th Streets, just east of Second Avenue, were strewn with glass and debris. Most of the injured suffered cuts from flying glass and the toll would have been much higher had it occurred during the rush hour.

Mt. Hermon: new battleground

By United Press International

Israeli and Syrian army engineer units worked under artillery fire today to build supply roads up the 9,000-foot slopes of snowy Mt. Hermon, the battleground for control of the Golan Heights.

The Tel Aviv military command said Israeli work crews struggled under constant Syrian artillery fire to widen a road to the peak.

Israeli planes, mortars and field guns bombarded Syrian engineering units building their own road on the northeast slopes, the command said.

Arab newsmen in southern Lebanon said Israel beefed up its positions on Mt. Hermon by occupying Tel El Chahar, part of the mountain in Lebanese territory. Lebanese soldiers fired mortars at the Israelis, but failed to dislodge them, the reports said.

An Israeli military spokesman, however, said, "We don't have any information" about the Lebanese news reports.

Syrian military communiques said "several" Israeli soldiers were killed and tanks destroyed in day and night artillery duels over the mountain. Syria said two raiding Israeli fighterbombers were driven off by ground fire.

The Israeli command said there were no Israeli casualties in Sunday's fighting. There were no casualty reports issued by the Syrian command.

Both sides want Mt. Hermon because the peak overlooks the Golan Heights and hundreds of miles of surrounding land, making an ideal observation post for artillery and air strikes.

New suit filed by blacks over Zebra searches

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A second suit was filed today by blacks protesting the San Francisco Police Department's stop-and-search manhunt for the "Zebra" gunmen who have slain 12 persons.

The suit was filed by the American Civil Liberties Union, six black men and 13 lawyers including professor Anthony G. Amsterdam of Stanford University, architect of the successful fight to get the death penalty declared unconstitutional.

It asked for a declaration that indiscriminate stopping, searching, interrogating and detaining of blacks is illegal and unconstitutional.

It also asked the declaration that blacks and other law abiding citizens "may walk and drive safely through the streets of San Francisco, free from fear of molestation by the authorities because of their physical appearance."

SLA threat received by Sacramento paper

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A penciled note and tape recorded message received today by the Sacramento Bee claimed the Symbionese Liberation Army would execute five California peace officers "for every SLA member murdered."

"Sacramento Bee: This communique has been addressed to you as you represent the capital of the State of California. You are responsible for informing the appropriate authorities," the taped message said.

"The purpose of this order is to prevent the setup and assassination of the members of the SLA by the fascist state agents. Suppression of this document can only result in the endangering of your civil servants," it said.

The messages, dated April 17, were received in a package postmarked Berkeley, April 19.

The Bee said there was some doubt that the messages came from the SLA. "Neither note nor tape contained the lengthy, ideological statements found in some SLA communications," the Bee said.

The messages were signed by a "General Pax," a name found in recent SLA public statements. They were turned over to the FBI this morning.

An FBI spokesman said they would have to be analyzed before agents would make any comment.

The note, on lined yellow paper with the SLA sevenheaded Cobra symbol, said: "The Symbionese Liberation Army will not allow itself to be slaughtered by the fascist forces who suppress us now. We therefore issue this warning: five California law enforcement officers will be executed for every SLA member murdered."

Supreme Court passes chance to rule on racial quotas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court sidestepped its first chance to rule specifically on racial hiring quotas and let stand today a lower court ruling that such requirements for state-supported construction jobs are constitutional.

In a brief order, the Court left in effect a decision by the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upholding a quota section in a state contract for construction at Boston State College.

Left open was the general question of whether specific hiring quotas to improve the lot of minorities violate the traditional concept of a "color blind" Constitution.

The contract at Boston State College required that 20 per cent of the man-hours involved in construction in all work categories be done by minorities.

In other actions, the Supreme Court:

—Agreed to consider whether President Dwight D. Eisenhower acted illegally in directing that a soldier convicted of murder, and whose death sentence he commuted, never be eligible for parole.

—Refused to overturn a U.S. Court of Claims decision giving an off-reservation tribe a share of timber revenues from the lands of the Hoopa Indians in northern California. Both the Justice Department and other Indians in the West had contested the ruling.

—Agreed to decide whether a federal grand court improperly invalidated part of New Jersey's new obscenity law before state courts had a chance to rule on it.

Four Demos, four Republicans file for State Senate

By DICK PRAUL

Four Republicans and four Democrats will officially appear on the June 4 Primary Election ballot in Santa Barbara County as aspirants for the unexpired 24th District State Senate post relinquished recently by Robert Lagomarsino, Ojai Republican, who won a special Congressional district election earlier this year.

County Clerk Howard C. Menzel's office transmitted the names of the eight candidates to the ballot printers in San Francisco as soon as the 5 p.m. deadline Friday for filing for the position rolled by.

The eight candidates' names are the last to go on a voluminous double ballot to go out to registered voters shortly, as filing periods for all other Congressional, State and county positions were reached previously.

Democrats who qualified for the election in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties include Laird Hayes, Santa Barbara, who is in public administration work; and three Ventura County men, Russell G. Herron, educator and business executive; Paul H. Kinney, state legislative assistant, and Omer L. Rains, an attorney.

Republicans include 36th District Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray, of Santa Barbara, former Santa Barbara mayor; County Supervisor Charles F. Catterlin, of Santa Barbara.

Catterlin, while a Santa Barbara attorney, has had the title of chairman of the Board of Supervisors placed on the ballot beside his name instead.

The other Republicans on the ballot, from Ventura County, are Al Albinger, a realtor; and Ruth D. McPherson, a college instructor.

The same candidates have filed for the primary election for the full-term State Senate starting next January, along with Gregory W. Mohr, Peace and Freedom candidate from Isla Vista. The nine candidates for the full term will contest for the new 18th District seat.

HUNDREDS of Lompoc Valley residents and out-of-towners visited the new Lompoc Record headquarters Saturday during an "open house" celebration. Above, Press Foreman Vic Martinez explains the workings of the five-unit Goss community press to a group of visitors.

Sheriff's officials reported the area was so remote that the department's search and rescue unit was called in to transport the injured man three miles to where an ambulance waited. Haddock suffered only minor injuries.

THE CHILDREN'S Department of the Lompoc Public Library announces that it still has several openings available in each of its three weekly sessions of the Free Preschool Story Time program for children three to five years of age. DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Vice President Gerald Ford and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy D-Mass., are the leading contenders for the Republican and Democratic presidential nominations, according to a poll in Sunday's edition of the Des Moines Register.

The Register's poll said 31 per cent of Iowa Republicans interviewed favored Ford as their nominee for President, while 47 per cent of the Democrats polled chose Kennedy.

Asked to select the man they would vote for in an election were held today, Iowans polled said they would pick Kennedy over Ford for President 43 to 40 per cent.

Air pollution items on agenda

Two air pollution matters are scheduled to come before the Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors when it convenes today in weekly session in Santa Barbara.

Emergency measures proposed for adoption for the County Air Pollution Control District will be up for approval. These would include a diminishment of certain industrial activities when and if air pollution reached a critical stage in the area.

In addition, the board will be asked to approve a contract not to exceed $2,000 to allow an expert to look into plant and agricultural crop damage aspects of the Santa Ynez Valley air pollution study which the county has already approved.

The expert recommended by the County Environmental Quality Control Office is Dr. O. Clifton Taylor, of the Statewide Air Pollution Research Center at the University of California, Riverside.

Also, the supervisors in their session at the County Building will discuss the possibility of setting up one or more regional architectural boards of review for Isla Vista, Solvang and other areas with distinctive architectural standards.

In another matter, veterans' representatives will appear before the board to request the supervisors to consider raising county credits for veterans seeking county employment to either the Federal or State levels, both of which are higher than the county level.

City planning commission faces heavy schedule

Lompoc Planning Commission tonight will hold two public hearings, one on a request for a home use permit in conjunction with sales of a non-motorized vehicle; and the other on a request for permission to use a trailer as a sales office.

Leon Mitchell wants to establish a business telephone in his home at 1321 E. Oak Ave., in conjunction with sales of a "People Powered Vehicle." His property is located in a single family residential zone.

William Culberson has asked permission for F. M. Beattie to use a trailer as a sales office. The Community Development Department has asked that the hearing be continued because of a discrepancy in the address of the site. A public notice published in a newspaper listed the site as 234 North H St., while the actual site is at 239 North H St.

The commission was also expected to consider the following agenda items:

— A report by the Community Development Department on the comprehensive zoning ordinance.

—Discussion of a proposed lot split to accomodate a 27,000 square-foot store for a Montgomery Ward on the northeast corner of H Street and Pine Avenue.

— A discussion of on-street parking based on a memorandum from Police Chief James Smith.

— A written report on a "sphere of influence" questionnaire.

— A League of California Cities report on conflict of interest laws.

Herbert "Bart" Porter, former scheduling director for President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign, surrendered to guards at the honor camp at Lompoc's Federal Correctional Institution at 10:50 this morning.

Porter, who was indicted in January by special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, was found guilty of one count of criminal information after admittedly lying to FBI investigators during the Watergate probe.

He will serve 30 days at the local facility's honor camp and then be released on one year's probation.

Porter was due at 10 a.m. this morning at the office of the federal marshal in Los Angeles but chose at the last moment to drive to Lompoc himself, leaving scores of newsmen behind in Los Angeles.

The minor Watergate figure was to have surrendered here by 2 p.m. but chose to arrive early, again avoiding newsmen.

Jean Greene, owner of the cattery, said Arthur had a mouth infection and could not eat unless ting Che had his special pills first.

5 WAYS TO LIGHT RIGHT AND SAVE ENERGY.

You can lighten your electric load by following these basics:

1. Turn off all lights that are not essential.

2. Never use a higher wattage bulb than is necessary to do the job. Where just a little light is needed, replace large wattage bulbs with smaller ones.

3. The wattage of a bulb does not measure the amount of light it gives, but rather the energy needed to light it. (Light is measured in lumens.) One 100-watt bulb gives 50% more light than four 25-watt bulbs for the same amount of energy. So where a large amount of light is needed, it's more efficient to use one large bulb instead of several smaller ones.

4. Fluorescent lighting is more economical, watt for watt, than incandescent bulbs. Fluorescent lamps give five times the light and last up to 10 times as long as ordinary bulbs. They're cooler, too.

5. Outdoor lighting should be restricted to your minimum needs for safety and security. Don't use lighting for merely decorative purposes.

All PG&E electric customers—no matter where they live—get much of their electricity from power plants fueled by scarce oil and natural gas. So it's important for everyone to help save energy wherever possible.

Health care hearings to commence Wed.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hearings will begin on Capitol Hill Wednesday on an issue affecting the well-being and the pocketbooks of all Americans— how to finance the nation's health care.

There is a complex array of proposals, but there are signs that chances for passage of ground-breaking legislation never have been better.

For the 25 million persons without any insurance at all and for millions of insured persons whose coverage is woefully inadequate, the stakes are high. These and other shortcomings of the present $94.1 billion a year health care financing system are acknowledged so widely that, whatever their differences, the twenty or so bills now before Congress all call for some change.

Even the health insurance industry, whose role in a new system will be a majbr issue at the hearings, supports legislation setting federal standards for a minimum level of insurance benefits.

"We feel that the (health insurance) business has demonstrated the capacity for full partnership with government in a national health insurance program," Leslie P. Hemry, president of the Health Insurance Association of America, said in an April 5 letter to each member of Congress.

The Nixon administration, eager to accomplish something in the domestic legislation area, will present the leadoff testimony Wednesday before the House Ways and Means Committee.

A tentative schedule calls for testimony Thursday on a bill sponsored by Sens. Russell B. Long, D-La., and Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and from major medical and hospital groups.

The battle to shape a bill will center around the administration's Comprehensive Health Insurance Plan (CHIP), substantially increased in its extent of coverage from a 1971 proposal, and a compromise bill submitted April 2 by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who chairs a Senate health subcommittee.

Kennedy earlier had pushed a far more extensive so called "health security" plan, and organized labor supported it. But he decided it stood no chance of passage and has abandoned it for the time being in favor of the compromise with Mills.

"We are willing and eager to testify on our proposal...," Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said. "As a significant move toward the administration proposal, the Kennedy-Mills health insurance bill is a welcome development...an encouraging step forward."

The administration and Kennedy-Mills plans each would cost the taxpayers at least an additional $6 billion a year.

Kissinger vetoes Cuban relations

ATLANTA (UPI) — The United States is not ready yet, if it ever will be, to treat Fidel Castro as a good neighbor, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger indicated Sunday.

"We don't have any intention of restoring diplomatic relations with Cuba, and I don't expect this will be a big subject this week," Kissinger told newsmen after attending the opening sessions of the Organization of American States (OAS) conference.

There was expected to be a move among some of the 22 Latin American members of the OAS to endorse Argentina's call for lifting sanctions against Cuba.

Kissinger set the tone of the OAS conference at opening sessions during the weekend. He urged greater global understanding, a less formal OAS structure and closer ties, but "not a common front against others."

He told the foreign delegates President Nixon was trying to raise U. S. assistance to food production programs in the Americas by 50 per cent. And in reference to the controversy over some U. S. businesses in Latin America, he pledged hemispheric harmony would take precedence over commercial interests.

Kissinger did not mention Cuba in his 30-minute speech Saturday. However the first tentative steps were taken to renew contacts with the Communist government. Members agreed their governments should be consulted about possible future involvement of Cuba in the organization.

N. Ireland death toll

BELFAST (UPI) — Inspector Herbert Norris reached for a piece of chalk to change the official death toll on the blackboard at police headquarters.

"It has reached four figures now," he said. "I wonder how many more."

Shortly after 3 p.m. Saturday, James Corbett, a 20-year-old Roman Catholic, became the 1000th person to die in nearly five years of Northern Irish violence.

His body was found dumped in a ditch on the outskirts of Belfast after being shot twice in the face.

Two men had called at his modest home in the new Barnsley housing project and driven him away in a blue minivan. A British army patrol was only 150 yards away when he was shot and thrown from the vehicle.

Police had no record of Corbett in their files, but said he appeared to be the victim of an Irish Republican Army (IRA) "execution squad" used to keep members in line.

At police headquarters, Corbett's death was recorded on a giant blackboard that keeps the grim tally of Northern Ireland's daily violence. The stark figures on the board showed a total of 693 civilians, 214 soldiers, 43 militiamen and 50 police killed in Northern Ireland violence since August, 1969.

FBI denies men infiltrated SLA

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The FBI man in charge of the search for kidnaped Patricia Hearst denied a report that his agents donned workingmen's clothes and infiltrated the neighborhood where she and her Symbionese Liberation Army captors were hiding.

"That is not true," said special agent Charles Bates Sunday night when informed of the report by Newsweek Magazine.

The magazine said the agents posed "as postmen, garbage collectors, delivery men and the like." The ruse allowed the FBI to discover "the neighborhood, if not the house, where the gang was hiding."

"We haven't had men dressed or posing like that," Bates said.

Bates said the FBI "was busy all weekend" conducting the search without success.'

It has been 77 days since Miss Hearst, 20, was carried away screaming from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment by the terrorist revolutionary group.

Miss Hearst was photographed accompanying SLA bank robbers last Monday, and FBI and local law enforcement agencies since have imposed a gag rule to prevent release of information which could prove prejudicial in the eventual prosecutions of SLA members.

Economists puzzled over high spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Economics textbooks say that during periods of high inflation people are supposed to stop spending, but most Americans apparently do not read economics textbooks.

Despite soaring inflation, people are still spending like mad —and economists are puzzled.

The spending runs counter to most theories of traditional economic behavior, which say people tend to stash away more cash in bank accounts or safe investments during times of economic uncertainty.

The release of the first quarter economic statistics last week, which showed inflation rising steadily and the gross national product (GNP) falling, should have produced a nation of misers. But the personal savings rate —the percentage of income that is deposited into financial institutions —actually dropped during the first three months of 1974.

"The consumer is not just sitting in his cave waiting...he is out spending," Sydney Jones, chief economist of the Department of Commerce, said.

Connally's influence try told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Columnist Jack Anderson said today that former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally tried and failed to get the Justice Department to stop a 1973 investigation of his old friend Jake Jacobsen.

The department continued its investigation of $10,000 provided to Jacobsen by milk producers after Connally telephoned then Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst and asked him to intervene, Anderson said.

Jacobsen, an attorney for the milk producers, has been indicted on charges he lied to a grand jury about the $10,000. Jacobsen testified he placed the money in a safety deposit box and never touched it.

Previously, Anderson said he discovered that the money was given to Connally and later returned when its existence became the object of several investigations. Connally has denied that report.

Sen. Kennedy meets with Brezhnev

MOSCOW (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy met with Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev today after running into confusion, embarrassment and some heckling when he tried a U.S.-style campus speech at a Russian university.

Soviet translators changed key sections of the Massachusetts Democrat's comments at Moscow State University and a college official tried to cut the remarks short by saying Kennedy was ill.

A jovial, gregarious Brezhnev met Kennedy, his wife, Joan, and their two children, Kara, 13, and Ted Jr., 12, at the Kremlin this morning, however, with smiles and handshakes.

"We'll talk about whatever he wants to talk about," Brezhnev told newsmen before taking Kennedy and his family into his study.

Brezhnev handed Kennedy an autographed picture of himself, causing Kara to ask if she could have one too. Brezhnev went right to his desk and signed another photo despite the senator's smiling protestations.

Kennedy's visit to the Soviet Union was the last stop on a three-nation, fact-finding tour of Eastern Europe. He previously visited Romania and Yugoslavia.

He told students at the university Sunday he believed a "magnanimous action" by the Kremlin in easing emigration barriers would spur Congress to grant the Soviet Union trade concessions.

After the speech, the first by a major U.S. politician at the college, he tried to poll the audience of 600 on various issues. "This is something I have been doing on American college campuses for the past three years," he said.

The audience, unused to public polls on sensitive issues, reacted with confusion and embarrassment. Many of the listeners, older than students, seemed to be staff or faculty members.

One query about whether the Soviet Union should spend more on defense caused an elderly man at the front to yell out in Russian, "That's an unfair question. That's provocative."

A middle-aged woman then shouted at Kennedy in English, "That depends on the international situation."

After 20 minutes of polling and questions, a university official suddenly announced an end to the meeting because Kennedy was "not feeling well."

8 WAYS TO TRIM KILOWATTS OUT OF YOUR COOKING.

You use more energy in your kitchen than in any other room. Economize with these suggestions:

1. Make sure your oven and surface units or burners are shut off when not in use.
2. Keep oven doors completely closed until food is cooked. Every time you open the door, the oven temperature drops from 25° to 50°. (Oven door windows aid the "peak-a-boo" cook.)
3. Use cooking utensils with flat bottoms and tight fitting covers whenever possible. Be sure pots and pans are the right size for range units or burners.
4. Prepare a complete meal when using the oven—main course, vegetables and dessert. Use foods that cook well at similar temperatures. (Exception: delicate green or leafy vegetables.)
5. Bake and broil from a cold oven start. There's no need to preheat an oven.
6. Thaw frozen meats in refrigerator before cooking. Cook as soon as possible after thawing, and do not re-freeze unless meat has been cooked. A defrosted roast requires approximately 33% less cooking time than a frozen one.
7. Turn off electric surface units a short time before food is done. Food will continue cooking on heat stored in the coils.
8. Never use range or oven to heat the kitchen. That's not its function, and it is costly as well as a waste of energy.

All PG&E electric customers—no matter where they live—get much of their electricity from power plants fueled by scarce oil and natural gas. So it's important for everyone to help save energy wherever possible.

Teri Lynn Rule weds John Silva

Bride wears opals as jewelry gifts from bridegroom

Bridal traditions were followed by Miss Teri Lynn Rule on her wedding day as she exchanged vows April 13 with John Anthony Silva. The afternoon ceremony took place in La Purisima Catholic Church. Father Andrew McGrath officiated at the double ring rites.

The bride's "something old" was an opal pendant given to her by her bridegroom on a birthday. Her "something new" were the matching earrings which were his gift on their wedding day. "Something borrowed" was the gold watch of her honor maid, Miss Carol Dover. "Something blue" was her bridal garter.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rule, 528 N. Poppy Street. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Silva, 429 South O Place.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza in Victorian mode. Featured was an empire waistline, fitted bodice of embroidered organza with bands of white satin ribbon, a high neckline and long puff capped sleeves. The A-line skirt, softly gathered at the sides and back, was banded with a double flounce of organza accented with Venetian lace in swirl design. It fell to a sweep train. A Camelot cap of lace secured her triple tiered veil of English illusion. Pink baby roses combined with stephanotis and baby's breath to fashion her bride's nosegay.

As honor maid, Miss Dover wore a long gown of pink flocked organza with empire waist and halter neckline and matching cape. Her bouquet was a crescent of pink carnations and baby's breath tied with pink and green streamers.

Bridesmaids Sue Guerra, Trudy Perry and Tami Rule, sister of the bride, wore matching styled gowns of green.

Denis Hayes served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Ed Cabral, cousin of the groom; Ron Rule, brother of the bride; Rob Guerra.

Miss Lori Mendez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Mendez, was the flower girl. Michael Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hudson of Norwalk, was the ringbearer.

Elks Lodge Hall was scene of the reception. Mrs. Paula Ray, godmother of the bride, registered the 500 guests and Helen Sousa served as hostess at both the reception and the church. Kim Sousa and Teresa Silva, sister of the bridegroom, were the rice girls. Mrs. Renee Cabral, Miss Susan Preece and Miss Linda Silva, sister of the groom, attended the gifts. Carol Ann Chambers and Alice Domingos served punch. Tony Domingos headed the barbecue crew and Victor Sousa led the serving crew. The wedding cake was made and served by Jaunee Jantz, aunt of the bridegroom.

Reception colors were in pink and green, with white wedding bells. Bouquets of smilex, camelias, carnations, daisies and baby's breath decorated the tables and surrounded the fountain punch bowl.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rule wore a long gown of mint green polyester knit and pearls. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of soft pink and green print, white jewelry. Each wore a corsage of pink roses and baby's breath.

On the couple's wedding trip to Madonna Inn, Monterey and Lake Tahoe, the bride wore a two piece pantsuit in pink print design and a pink rose and baby's breath corsage.

A Lompoc High School graduate of 1970, the bridegroom is farming with his father. His bride is a 1972 graduate of Lompoc High. The couple's home address is 315½ North J Street.

Dear Abby

Season's closed on Alaska husband hunt

DEAR ABBY: A 45-year-old woman, looking for a husband, asked you where all the men were, and you told her to go to Alaska.

Please, Abby! We don't need any more women up here. The average age for a woman here is 27, and, except for the military, there aren't any spare men around. We have plenty of drifters, but they're very poor husband material.

Also, you said, "... and if you should get lucky, the nights are six months long." A lot of people didn't know you were kidding. You would have to go way up into the arctic circle to find darkness during the daytime.

Please do us a favor and set the record straight, and don't send us any more women! Not to Anchorage anyway.

LIVES HERE

DEAR LIVES: For another discouraging word, read this letter from Fairbanks, Alaska:

DEAR ABBY: Please don't start another gold rush in Alaska. We have enough trouble with men (and even whole families) who come here looking for jobs on the Alaskan pipeline which hasn't even been started yet.

In the first place, nobody should come to Alaska unless he has a job assured him because unemployment in this state is 10.4 per cent — the highest in the nation. And furthermore, there's an Alaskan law giving job preference to Alaskans.

Another thing people don't know: The cost of living is high in Alaska. A bacon and egg breakfast in a good restaurant costs from $3 to $5, and a good steak dinner costs anywhere from $8 to $15. And if you're looking for cheap housing, forget it.

Abby, do a lot of people a big favor and print this.

YOUR FRIEND IN FAIRBANKS

DEAR FRIEND: That settles it. Don't any of you women go to Alaska in search of a husband, and don't any of you men go there unless you have a job in your pocket!

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I was hospitalized for a heart condition, and upon release, my doctor told me I had to take it easy.

My son, his wife and their three very active young children are neighbors to us, and the children are here more than they are at home. They wear me out, but I can't bring myself to send them home.

My husband hired a housekeeper to help me the last few weeks, but my daughter-in-law has begun to "borrow" her, so once again I am alone with those undisciplined children.

My daughter-in-law is a good girl, and I'm sure she doesn't realize the toll the children take on me. She's also very sensitive. My son tried talking to her about letting the children spend so much time at my house unsupervised, but she ended up in tears, all upset, and the next day they were back.

How can I handle this without huring anyone? I love them all very much.

NAMELESS, OF COURSE

DEAR NAMELESS: First, tell your housekeeper that she is not to be "borrowed" by your daughter-in-law. Then tell your daughter-in-law to please quit commandeering your help — that you love her and the kiddies, but you aren't up to having them over unless she is there to discipline them. Don't worry about her ending up in tears. Better that than you ending up in a box — before your time.

Lawmakers to tackle energy legislation after hearing

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —With many lawmakers preoccupied with the forthcoming June primary, the legislature this week will conduct a crucial hearing on major energy legislation supported by GOV. Ronald Reagan and Assembly Democrats.

The "energy crisis" bill (AB1575) by Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, has languished in the key Senate Finance Committee since February while a compromise was ironed out with Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Sen. Randolph Collier, R-Yreka, chairman of the committee and a foe of the bill, finally scheduled the full-scale hearing for Thursday after once stalling action on the measure.

Warren has predicted the Assembly-passed bill has the necessary votes to clear the committee even with Collier's opposition. Collier contends the measure would "lock up" Northern California, a reference to the measure's power plant siting features.

The legislation is aimed at curbing wasteful energy uses and streamlining power plant siting. It would create a five-member commission appointed by the governor, subject to veto by the legislature, to deal with energy problems.

It also would impose a $16 million-a-year tax on electricity users to finance energy research and development.

Apart from action on the energy bill, the pace of activity in the legislature on important measures has slowed because, in part, lawmakers are concentrating on their campaigns for re-election in newly apportioned districts or election to higher office.

Among the measures scheduled to be considered this week are:

OIL—Makes public utilities of monopolistic oil companies that control production from the well to the gas station. The bill (AB3142) by Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley, will be heard by the Assembly Commerce Committee.

LIQUOR—Repeals the alcoholic beverage fair trade laws. The bill (SB1497) by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, is scheduled to be heard by a Senate subcommittee Tuesday and then again Thursday by the full Government Organization Committee. The fair trade laws, Gregorio contends, sanction anticompetitive practices by the liquor industry that result in higher prices for consumers.

ELECTIONS — Requires a governor to obtain approval of the legislature before calling a special initiative election. The measure (ACA100) by Assemblyman March K. Fong, D-Oakland, is a direct result of Gov. Ronald Reagan calling the 1973 special election for his tax initiative, Prop 1.

Republicans lose students

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — A survey by the Gallup Poll released Sunday shows student allegiance to the Republican party is at its lowest point in almost 10 years.

Of 1,089 fulltime students interviewed on 60 college campuses, only one in seven said he was a Republican.

Thirty-seven per cent of the students claimed Democratic affiliation and were outnumbered by the 49 per cent who referred to themselves as independents.

Economy may further affect birth rate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The gloomy economic picture in the United States could cause more postponements of children and continue to lower the country's birth rate, a California state population expert says.

W. Nelson Rasmussen, a demographer with the state Population Research Unit, said increasing inflation and a sagging Gross National Product could lead to further birth "postponements," along with some outright "cancellations."

"It can come right down to the strict cost of having a child," Rasmussen said. "Those who have been postponing children may continue to do so because of an unsure economy."

The government announced this weekend that the cost of feeding a typical family for one year set a record of $1,748. The figure was based on the cost of groceries in March and applied over 12 months.

The government also reported a record jump in non-food prices pushed the cost of living up 1.1 per cent in March. At the same time the Commerce Department released figures showing the Gross National Product—the nation's total output of goods and services—fell at a 5.8 per cent annual rate, the first decline in three years and the biggest drop in 16 years.

At the same time, Rasmussen discounted speculation that more babies would be born if couples could not afford entertainment and were forced to spend more time at home.

"That would make a good story, but I don't believe it," Rasmussen said during an interview. He said there were similar predictions following the Nov. 9-10, 1965 "blackout" of portions of the Northeastern United States, including New York City.

He said some writers and researchers said there would be a surge of births nine months after the power outage.

"That was discounted," he said, adding that population experts and health officials found the "dark spell," which forced most people to stay at home, did not increase births.

Nation's weather

United Press International

Powerful thunderstorms weighed heavy over northeast Texas and the lower Mississippi Valley today and a tornado watch went into effect for parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

The ravaging storm that hit Oshkosh, Wis., Sunday, killing two persons and injuring more than 50 others, subsided. Only a few thundershowers were expected for the Central Plains, the western Ohio Valley and the Pacific Northwest.

Ten tornadoes whirled over Texas Sunday and flash flood warnings were issued in three counties. The twisters caused heavy property damage but no serious injuries.

The National Weather Service posted flash flood warnings and watches today for northeast Texas, western Tennessee and northern Mississippi. Heavy rains drenched most of the lower Mississippi Valley.

Mitchell, Stans trial nearing conclusion

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government pressed to shore up its case against former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans with rebuttal testimony today in the final week of the first trial of former Cabinet members since the 1920s.

The first rebuttal witness was Richard B. Vine, director of the State Department's Office of Western European Affairs. He began his testimony late Friday, telling how he was attached to the U.S. embassy in Bern, Switzerland, on Nov. 30, 1971, when Mitchell, then attorney general, phoned about the jailing of Robert L. Vesco.

Vine said he told Mitchell that the international financier, now a fugitive in the Mitchell-Stans case, had been jailed on a felony charge, "disloyal management," brought by a shareholder of Investors Overseas Services, Ltd., which Vesco had taken over.

Vesco was released on $125,000 bail, and the charge was later dropped.

Mitchell and Stans are charged with trying to impede a federal investigation of Vesco's operations in exchange for his secret $200,000 cash contribution to the 1972 nixon re-election campaign. The trial began its 10th week today.

U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Giagliardi told the jury of nine men and three women that testimony would be finished today even if it was necessary to go into a night session. Summations and the judge's charge to the jury were scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Stans's defense rested its case late Friday. Mitchell's attorney, Peter Fleming Jr., indicated he might have another witness or two, but this was not certain. Meanwhile the judge let the government get its rebuttal started.

Ford in warning to GOP

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford warned of Republican losses from coast to coast if the GOP allows Democrats to make the November elections a "national referendum" on President Nixon.

"The issue is not Richard Nixon, but is as simple as ABC," he told a weekend convention of the Republican State Central Committee. "It is whether Republicans on a nationwide basis can mobilize a return to the ABC's of politics on a personal and precinct level."

"Our task is very difficult," Ford said. "The Democrats are seeking maximum exploitation, and I underline exploitation, on a national basis of what might be the greatest controversy ever generated about a president of the United States.

"That problem is being resolved as it should be by the Congress in accordance with our Constitution. If we, as Republicans in the grass roots, permit ourselves to become endlessly embroiled in that issue, we will forefeit elections from coast to coast —elections that should be decided on the individual merits of candidates..."

The vice president spoke Saturday to a convention of about 1,200 whose official theme was "California's Winning Way," but whose unofficial theme seemed to say: "Don't blame the GOP or its candidates for Watergate."

At one point, Ford's speech was interrupted by the persistent shouts of a GOP congressional candidate, Sean McCarthy, 26, of San Rafael, who apparently was protesting the endorsement of his opponent by the GOP executive committee. Security men converged on McCarthy and he was booked on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Ford's appearance was picketed by about 250 peaceful protesters outside the LeBaron Hotel convention headquarters.

He said Republicans "must stay in the game and put a winning team in the field (and) this cannot be done by pointing fingers and wringing hands."

"It can be done by organizing, unifying, mobilizing and working together to draw a line of resolve that proclaims we will be pushed no further."

Elder takes Monsanto... Prentice in biggest payoff

Pensacola, Fla. (UPI) — Now that the shoe is on the other foot, Lee Elder says he doesn't know if he'll accept the invitation to become the Masters' first black golfer.

Elder, upset in the past because no black has had such an invitation, earned one Sunday when he won the Monsanto Open with a sudden-death playoff victory over Peter Oosterhuis of England.

Cliff Roberts, chairman of the Masters, didn't waste any time.

"We are pleased that Mr. Elder won at Pensacola and we are looking forward to seeing him in Augusta next spring," said Roberts, who has insisted that the Masters would welcome its first black "as soon as he earns a place in our tournament."

But Elder, "in ninth heaven" after gaining his first victory in seven years on the PGA tour, wasn't so quick to accept.

"I'll have to weigh that somewhat," he said. "I'll be happy to play the Masters, but I want to wait and see. There are a lot more tournaments in between. Right now, I'm happier about the Tournament of Champions than the Masters."

Elder's victory Sunday was worth $30,045, more than double what he had won previously this year, and a berth in the T of C which begins Thursday at La Costa, Calif.

Since he's the first black to win a "major" PGA event since Charles Sifford won the Los Angeles open in 1969, he also will be the first black to play in that tournament in five years.

Elder, 39, a Texas native who now lives in Washington, D. C., was two strokes behind Oosterhuis with two holes to play Sunday but came through with two last-ditch birdies for a 10-under-par 274 that forced the playoff.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Slender Jo Ann Prentice, a 41-year-old golf course owner from Alabama, is $32,000 richer today after picking up the LPGA's richest payoff in history.

But her sudden-death victory in four extra holes of the $200,000 Dinah Shore-Colgate Winners Circle golf tournament Sunday came about four holes later than it might have.

Coming down to the par three, 157-yard 17th green in Sunday's final round, the 122-pound brunette three-putted the hole for a bogey that allowed Sandra Haynie and Jane Blalock to catch her.

After the regulation 72 holes at the tough, sun-baked Mission Hills Golf and Country Club's 6,382-yard course, the three women were knotted at 289, one over par.

But Miss Prentice didn't let the hole fool her a second time.

"I was so nervous on the last putt, I wasn't even thinking about the money," she said after sinking a three-foot putt on No. 17 to edge Miss Blalock and win the top prize of $32,000 and a new car on the fourth sudden-death hole.

"When I walked up to 17, I was determined to win it or lose it on the hole," she said. "I went to the pin."

Miss Haynie was eliminated on the second sudden-death hole. After Miss Blalock missed a 12-footer for her birdie by stroking her putt one foot past the hole, Miss Prentice calmly rolled in the match-clinching putt.

It was only the bespectacled Miss Prentice's fifth tour victory ever and easily overshadowed her biggest previous winning purse of $6,500.

Baby, streaks don't help Dodger cause

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Joe Ferguson learned at the ballpark—at the same time a Dodger Stadium crowd of 41,399 did—that he was a father for the first time Sunday.

The only thing the Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants were sure of from their game Sunday though was that their rivalry dating from 1890 is still alive.

The Giants came from behind to score five times in the eighth inning and take a 6-4 victory from Los Angeles and two of the three-game series.

But, unlike many Dodger-Giant classics, the crowd was guilty of the shenanigans.

More than a half dozen security guards were needed to stop a brawl in the stands which produced a litter of toilet paper rolls and other objects onto the field.

And the game was twice interrupted by streakers, one of whom rounded the bases as the Dodgers took the field in the eighth inning and then ducked into the San Francisco dugout.

Both streakers were male.

The Giants, who were three runs behind, sent 10 batters to the plate in the eighth. Mike Phillips doubled in three runs and Steve Ontiveros and Chris Speier singled in a run each.

Reliever Randy Moffit, the fourth San Francisco pitcher to appear in the game, got the win for his first decision to go along with his five saves. He has only allowed one run in 13 2-3 innings.

The Dodgers, Mike Marshall, who picked up for starter Andy Messersmith in the eighth, suffered the loss. He is 0-1.

The Giants are idle today and then entertain Montreal Tuesday night in the opener of a two-game set.

Pirates 7, Mets 0

The Pirates touched winless Tom Seaver for four hits and six runs in five innings as Ken Brett shut out the Mets. Seaver, now 0-2 in his first four starts, held the Pirates scoreless until the fifth inning when Manny Sanguillen slammed a one-out homer to left, his first of the year.

Expos 9, Cards 5

Willie Davis knocked in three runs with a pair of singles as the Expos routed the Cardinals. Steve Rogers, hiking his record to 3-0, held St. Louis to eights hits before exiting in the ninth. The Expos made the most of their nine hits with the help of four Cardinal errors, 10 walks, and one hit batsman.

Padres 1-7, Reds 10-1

John Grubb doubled and tripled to lead the Padres to a victory over the Reds after San Diego dropped the opener of the doubleheader. Bill Greif went the route for the Padres in the second game to pick up his first victory in four decisions. Dave Concepcion's third homer and first major league grand slammer highlighted a seven-run Cincinnati first in the opener.

Astros 4, Braves 3

Bob Watson ignited a three-run uprising in the eighth inning with a two-run homer to lift the Astros to a win over the Braves despite Hank Aaron's 717th home run. Reliever Jerry Johnson recorded his first win of the season and Fred Scherman, who pitched the ninth, picked up his first save of the year. Frisella took the loss, 0-1.

Phillies 7, Cubs 3

Greg Luzinski singled home a run in the third, drove in another in the fifthwith a sacrifice fly, and doubled home another in the sixth to lift his average to .216. Steve Carlton picked up his second victory against no losses. The Phils, who have lost eight of their last ten, got a homer from Mike Anderson and a triple by Tommy Hutton.

Braves, Conqs hot; collide tomorrow

By STEVE HOOKER
and SCOTT OSTLER

"This was a big win for us, but the game Tuesday is just as big," said Lompoc Coach Dan Bodary after his Lompoc Braves drubbed the Santa Maria Saints 9-0 Friday in Santa Maria, pounding out nine hits including two homers, and maintaining possession of the Northern League lead.

The Cabrillo Conqs, meanwhile, were having little trouble with the San Luis Obispo Tigers, running up a 12-4 score, ripping nine base hits, and keeping pace a half game behind the Braves.

The Braves and Conqs meet tomorrow at Lompoc at 3:15 to wrap up the second round of league play. Cabrillo will open with Nick Berry on the mound, while Lompoc has not yet announced a starter.

The two pace-setting Valley clubs matched performances Friday afternoon, as both exploded for a big second inning, and both got excellent pitching.

The Braves got six runs in the second on five hits and four Saints errors. George Renfroe opened the action with a homer over the left field fence. Base hits by Leroy Grossini, Ted Heath, John Rodriguez (double) and Rick Fridrich, along with two stolen bases and the Saints' bobbles, made it an 8-0 ballgame.

Lompoc had picked up a run in the first as Fridrich drove in Heath with a single.

Fridrich capped a big four-RBI day at the plate when he blasted a two-run homer in the fourth inning, cashing in Paul Borchard, who had singled.

The Braves got steady mound work from starter John Rodriguez and reliever Ted Grafton, a pair of senior lefties who limited Santa Maria to four hits and allowed only one runner to advance to third base.

The Saints' only threat came in the bottom of the seventh, when Tim Weeks doubled with two out and reached third on an infield error on Dan Guerra, but Fridrich threw Weeks out trying to score.

Bob Edie and Mike Mohr split the pitching duties for Santa Maria.

The Conqs sent 11 batters to the plate in their big second inning, reaching San Luis pitcher John Proud for seven runs on three hits, and five free passes. It all happened with two outs, after Kirk Dalton was called out for stepping on home plate while trying to squeeze home Eddie Hall.

Kelly Hubbard followed with a single, Craig Winegarner, Kevin Drake and Bucky Brockett all drew walks, and Gary Hargis drove home two runs with a ground single. Hall then came up for his second chance of the inning and doubled home Brockett for the seventh run.

Steve Clayton's triple in the third and Dalton's single made it 8-0, and Cabrillo got four more in the fifth on singles by Hall and Charlie Denson, a double by Hargis, a walk and a hit bastsman.

Craig Winegarner threw a two-hitter, allowing only ground singles to Proud in the fourth and fifth. Craig got into trouble in the fifth when he walked three batters and

Schankel clicks off impressive double

Lompoc's Jim Schankel showed that he will have to be rated a strong contender for CIF distance events titles, as he finished near the front of the pack in both his races Saturday evening at the star-studded Arcadia Invitational high school track meet.

Schankel's races, along with the performances of four other Lompoc Valley athletes, is expected to be shown when the videotape of the meet is shown on "Prep Sports World" (Ch. 4) either next Thursday or Sunday (check TV listings and the Record).

Schankel, who is threatening a pair of Lompoc High records held by Terry Williams, lopped more than eight seconds off his previous best time in the mile, taking fourth in 4:09.1. An amazing total of five runners finished under 4:10, led by Andy Clifford of Sunny Hills in 4:07.1. Ralph Serna of Loara was second in 4:07.6, John Musich of Burbank ran 4:08, then Schankel, then Laguna Beach sophomore Eric Hulst in 4:09.1.

Going into the meet, Musich held the season's top time in the CIF Southern Section with a 4:13.

Schankel finished second to Hulst in the 2-mile, running 9:04.8 to Hulst's 8:59.9. Those two times represent the best outdoor clockings in the CIF this season. Lompoc's Roger Fabing was fifth in a personal outdoor best time of 9:09.

(Williams' school records are 4:08.4 in the mile and 8:54.8 in the 2-mile.)

Mike Martin of Cabrillo finished fifth in the 880 with a 1:56, which, prior to the meet, would have given him the sixth best time this year in CIF. Teammates Roland Solomon placed third in the 180-yard low hurdles, but failed to place in the highs.

Lompoc's Terry Jackson ran last in the 880.

Ray Gil 4th

Ray Gil of Lompoc ran fourth in the 40-to-49-year - old division of yesterday's Las Posas Hills 12-mile run. Gil, 49, ran the course in 77:32 to outdistance 27 other runners in his division over the hilly course in Camarillo.

Celts rip Knicks, lead 3-1

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Havlicek scores 36 points, gives Boston a 3-1 playoff lead over New York and still says he's a worry wart.

Despite Boston's commanding lead in the NBA's Eastern Conference finals, Havlicek fears the Celtics could suffer a letdown if they become overconfident.

The Celts tripped the Knicks, 98-91, Sunday, positioning themselves for the series clincher in Boston Wednesday night.

"The fifth game will be just like games 1-2-3 and 4," Havlicek told a TV audience. "I refuse to be overconfident even though we're coming off a win instead of a loss. I don't want to sound philosophical, but it is just one more game to be played."

Havlicek, the league's fourth leading playoff scorer with 2,963 points, said his last two points of the game, on a driving layup after a pass down the lane from Dave Cowens, was the most decisive and satisfying basket of his Sunday output. It gave Boston a 94-91 lead with 27 seconds left and choked off a last New York attempt to gain a 2-2 series split.

Wrestling

The Lompoc-Vandenberg Wrestling Club sent 25 wrestlers to the Cypress Junior College Greco-Roman Tournament over the weekend, and 11 of the boys placed. There were 280 participants in the age-group meet.

Bringing home championships for the local club were Paul Larson, Gary Eppley, Mark Larson, Mark Bowser, and Benje Williams.

Larson (142) pinned this year's state high school runner-up on his way to the title, and Gary Eppley captured his third tourney crown of the year. Larson (141) and Bowser (194) grabbed titles in the 14-and-under competition, while Williams was the 132-pound open champ.

Angels irk Jackson, beat A's

OAKLAND — (UPI) — The California Angels won the game and there were any number of heroes but all the talk was about an alleged knockdown pitch in the ninth involving Reggie Jackson.

The Angels scored six runs off Vida Blue, an overworked Rollie Fingers and a struggling Darold Knowles in the eighth inning Sunday and held on for a 9-5 victory over the Oakland A's which vaulted them back into first place in the American League West.

The Angels thought Knowles "threw at" light-hitting Denny Doyle leading off the top of the ninth but they didn't make much of a fuss.

So it seemed obvious that the first man to bat in the bottom of the ninth would have to prove the equalizer. That man happened to be Jackson, who had six hits in the three-game series with the Angels.

Skip Lockwood, a teammate of Jackson in 1966 at Modesto of the California League, sailed his first pitch to Reggie high and tight. Jackson skipped away to avoid being hit and then barked at Lockwood "don't ever do that again. I don't like it and if it happens again someone is going to get hurt."

Lockwood, who held the A's to an unearned run in the final three innings to snap a personal seven-game losing streak dating back to the 1973 season, walked away and said he didn't hear what Jackson had to say.

"I pitch everyone inside," said Lockwood. "I never intended to hit Jackson. Heck, we're old friends and I still hope we are."

Plate umpire Merle Anthony walked out to the mound and told Lockwood, and Angels manager Bobby Winkles, "that should be all of it."

Winkles, who coached Jackson when both were at Arizona State, denied he ordered Lockwood to throw at Reggie.

"Reggie shouldn't be mad at me," said Winkles. "He ought to know the old coach wouldn't throw at him. Besides, it wasn't much of a knockdown pitch."

Jackson also told Winkles he wasn't mad at him "but I won't forget this."

One of our Companies, the Home Ins. Co. will soon introduce new pet insurance coverage. To be available as an endorsement to Homeowners policies the coverage would reimburse pet owners for veterinary treatment as a result of sickness or injury to household pets. The Companies research indicated there are 22 million cats and 35 million dogs in U.S. households today. The coverage is expected to cost about $15.00 per year — and should certainly fill a pressing need. We will let you know as soon as available — it's called the "Pet Protector."

Termed "nice guy of the month" by Dolores Andrade, president of the Mission Hills Community Council, is John Rufo. Rufo has given many hours of service to the community while painting the inside of the Mission Hills Community Building. On April 6 many men and women joined Rufo as painters. In the following week, Rufo painted a few hours each day to complete the work.

Fund-raising activities are being planned by the Mission Hills Community Council to help with extra expenses resulting from the purchase of a mimeograph machine, a garbage disposal, and the repairing of toilets at the community building. Another expense in the near future will be the replacement of the broken main water line on the community building property.

Fund-raising activities are a plastic housewares party May 1 at 7:30 p.m. and a rummage sale May 4 from 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. Both activities will be held at the community building. Absolutely no rummage sale items will be available prior to 9 a.m., May 4.

Rummage Sale or plastic housewares party patrons should have no trouble finding the community building thanks to American Legion Vandenberg Post 125. They recently donated a huge sign marking the site.

Special guest at the Mission Hills Council meeting for April will be Ernest Lehman, square dance caller. He will demonstrate square dancing. If enough interest is shown, a monthly square dance may be held in Mission Hills.

On April 7 parents of First Holy Communion class students at Queen of Angels Catholic Church, met with teachers Agnes Metcalf and Dolores Andrade.

Mrs. Metcalf explained the costs and ordering of prayerbooks, veils, ties, rosary beads etc., and the importance of Confession.

Mrs. Andrade is chairman of the First Communion breakfast. She explained that First Communicants would be treated to breakfast in one room, while the parents would enjoy coffee in a separate room at the church hall.

Sponsored by the Student Council at Los Berros Elementary School, the sale of identification bracelets is in full swing now. Sales dates are April 15-26. The cost is $1 for these stainless steal identification tags. They are avaialbe in four varieties— bracelets, necklaces, key rings and pet tags. Those wishing to purchase these items may order from any Los Berros student.

Student Council members and Tom Freeman, advisor, are preparing for a Los Berros School Carnival to be held May 11, from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. at the school. This will be the school's first School Carnival, and the Student Council hopes for a successful day.

An Easter Egg Hunt was held at the Mission Hills Community property last Saturday. A turnout of approximately 100 children joined in the fun.

Preparing the field for the hunt were Mark Welch and David Savinsky, 10; Clifford Andrade, 11; Christopher Andrade, 16.

Gayle and Bill Holmes, Lee Rufo and family, and Dolores Andrade and family colored the eggs.

Prize-winning eggs were found by children divided into two groups: 1-5 year olds, and 6-10 year-olds. Winners were Robbie Cantrell and Crystal Turpin, 3; Paul Estrada, 9; Samuel Redrick, 9.

A special recent visitor to Tom Freeman's fifth-grade class at Los Berros was Captain Bob Brook of Vandenberg Air Force Base. With his puppet 'Zeke' he gave a father-son talk about drugs to the class. Also discussed were dangers resulting from smoking and alcoholic drinks.

William the investor

LONDON (UPI) — Even for a human being, William Arethyn's record as an amateur stock market expert would be hard to beat.

In less than a year he built a small portfolio of shares into a personal fortune of $24,000 and his trades since April 1 alone have netted him $7,200.

Not bad for an Old English sheepdog.

Jim: "How about some articles on slam hands. We might concentrate on slams missed and misbid."

Oswald: "Here's an interesting safety play. South was a trifle ashamed of his bidding. After all, seven spades would be cold against a two-one trump break and he had merely bid six. Not that he didn't have a good reason for the underbid. The game was rubber bridge and South wanted to be sure of the rubber."

Jim: "I suppose you are going to tell me that South led a trump to his ace at trick two and never could recover to make six."

Oswald: "No, I am not. South was one of those really careful players. He didn't want to make seven. He decided to wear suspenders and a belt and be sure of six. Therefore, at trick two he led a trump from dummy and finessed his jack. After that the bad trump break didn't hurt. He made his slam."

Jim: "Quite a safety play. If the unusual finesse had lost South would have been able to win the return; draw the last trump; cash his ace of diamonds and get to dummy with the seven of trumps to discard his losing club."

For Tuesday, April 23, 1974

ARIES (March 21-April 19) New business situations should be explored thoroughly. You could do well for yourself if the venture is sound and stable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You should enjoy yourself if you're involved in some club work or group endeavor. You'll mix well with the crowd.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone will do something today to help make your lot a little easier. Be sure to mark it in your book of things to be repaid.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be drawn into a closer relationship with one you thought had views unlike your own. You'll learn you think very much alike.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You've gained the admiration of one who is reluctant at present to tell you. An interesting attachment will result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You won't go far wrong at this time if you base your decisions on how you feel about an individual. She won't let you down.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This will be a very productive day for you, if you devote your time to the type of tasks you enjoy doing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Concentrate today on doing things you feel will add beauty and harmony to your lifestyle and the lifestyle of one very important to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) By being your usual pleasant self you can get persons performing work or service for you to do little extras they normally wouldn't.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Get out and mix today. You'll draw the type of attention to yourself that helps give the old ego a needed boost.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're likely to feel the urge to do a little shopping to get something you've been wanting for the home. You're entitled.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Courtesy and charm will work wonders for you in your dealings with others. Just don't lay it on too thick.

LOMPOC RECORD

OPINIONS

The columns of the Lompoc Record are open to all expressions of opinion consistent with good taste and the laws.

The Record's aim is to present facts in its news columns and opinions in its editorial columns.

Thank you

The staff and management of the Lompoc Record has concluded a busy weekend proudly showing off our new newspaper building.

We are thankful to the many, many citizens who found the time to drop in and take a tour of the facility. Their interest in their hometown newspaper was magnificent and we are forever hopeful that we satisfied the many questions that were asked.

It was gratifying also to see the interest displayed in our technical equipment which produces the daily newspaper. We are proud of our facilities and the climate in which we work.

We also wish to thank the many, many people who complimented us on our structure and the location of our structure. We are proud that they consider the style and the architecture of the building an asset to the community.

In the era ahead, we are sure that we can pledge, with certainty, a daily newspaper worthy of this community, a newspaper that will be capable of growing with the community.

Again, the staff and management wishes to thank the public for their sincere display of interest this past weekend during our "open house" observance.

Straight talk

If you do not know what you are talking about, I strongly recommend that you do not impose yourself upon Mr. John Hutchinson, Visiting Professor of International Relations at Johns Hopkins University. Mr. Hutchinson, to put it gently, does not suffer fools gladly. He is a political liberal, a devoted trade unionist, a British anti-imperialist, an equalitarian who despises any hint of racial supremacy, and he profoundly believes that the world at large is doing its absolute worst on the matter of bringing peace and racial harmony to Rhodesia.

Most recently, the British government of Harold Wilson (whom, by the way, Hutchinson admires — if you can stand it) tightened the screws on Rhodesia by yet another notch; and, while at it, did a little grandstanding at the expense of Greece, Portugal, and Chile — the crimes in Chile were compared on the floor of Commons with the crimes of Stalin, which is a little like comparing Auschwitz to a fraternity initiation. Still, the government of England will play the critical role in approving any agreement reached between black and white in Rhodesia. But the idea going the rounds in chic international circles is that the British Commonwealth should send a force into Rhodesia to preside over that country. A liberal journal, recognizing Mr. Hutchinson as an authority on Rhodesia, wrote him asking him to do an article on the subject. His reply is brilliantly instructive...

"You asked for my observations on the proposal, made at the last Commonwealth Summit, for a Commonwealth Force to be stationed in Rhodesia for ten years to keep the peace and, presumably, to usher in a democratic age.

"The mind expands at the idea. General Amin of Uganda could administer massacres. Prime Minister Forbes Burnham of Guyana might give a course on interracial affection. Prime Minister Errol Barrow of Barbados, who apparently is not afraid of bloodshed in Rhodesia, could advise on the Mafia concession, a major perk in the Caribbean. I don't quite know what Prime Minister Gough Whitlam of Australia might do, since he is busy analyzing other governments, but perhaps he could squeeze in a lecture on 'Aspects of Aboriginal Freedom'; it wouldn't take long, since there are only aspects to deal with.

"I notice that Canadian Foreign Minister Mitchell Sharp, who knows nothing of consequence about Rhodesia, would like to send troops there. Presumably he believes in reciprocity and would like a general for Quebec. I can't think offhand of any Commonwealth candidates, but I strongly recommend President Jean-Bedel Bokassa of the Central African Republic. He has a nasty habit of gouging out his opponents' eyes, but speaks excellent French.

"We are, of course, in the politics of the absurd. Rhodesia seems to be fine sport for a slack morning at the Summit. I respect the good intentions of most of the gentlemen of the Commonwealth, but they are short on brains and modesty.

"The idiocies of the Commonwealth Force proposal do not bear further thought. The simple response is that the Rhodesians are led by men of quality, black and white, who are well schooled in the complexities of their politics and culture. They welcome the help of understanding men, but have no need for moralizing neophytes with corpses in their own living rooms. One continues to marvel at the indifference of outsiders to the preferences of the Rhodesians, black and white.

"I hesitate to disturb the dreamers of the Summit with a practical suggestion, but why do they not assert for Rhodesians what they claim for themselves, namely self-determination? Prime Minister Ian Smith and Bishop Abel Muzorewa are negotiating. What they agree on will be accepted in Rhodesia by handsome majorities, black and white. It should be good enough for the Commonwealth Ministers. Then they could turn to Uganda, where a barbarian rules; but I trow they won't. Men of double standards hate the light.

"Look to London; protect them there against the self-righteous overseas so they can concentrate on the evidence. Look to Washington; we could bring sanity to international law and peace to Rhodesia if we took a short break from kissing our enemies. I am an equalitarian, and hope for fraternity in Rhodesia. It will not be helped by small Prime Ministers abroad."

I say to the British government: Gentlemen, send that man to the United Nations.

Railroad talk

Jay H. Long came to Lompoc last week. Jay doesn't come to Lompoc the ordinary way, by auto or foot or plane. Jay Long travels in a private railroad car that he parks near the site of the former Southern Pacific Depot.

When Jay arrived, he called and invited us to have breakfast with him aboard the car. We accepted, readily. We have been Jay's guest before.

Jay has earned the right to the private car. He has been a railroad man for more years than he probably cares to remember. He is former assistant to the vice-president of Southern Pacific Railroad and is currently an advisor to the president.

It was only natural that the breakfast talk got around to railroads. We asked the first question.

"Is SP glad to get out of the passenger business?"

He looked at me incredulously.

"Certainly, absolutely," he answered. He then explained that since record keeping by SP began, his railroad has lost nearly $1 billion dollars on passenger service.

The concentration now is on the freight business and SP is doing real well. They have experienced a five per cent gain in such revenues each year over the past few years.

Jay said that there is not a railroad, anywhere in the world, that can make a profit from passenger service. He said that recent statistics he had seen showed that the Japanese railroad system, for example, was being subsidized to the tune of nearly $1 million a day by the Japanese government.

Equipment, salary and maintenance costs eat up the railroad revenues, Jay claimed. He sees no hope for Amtrak to ever break even. If passenger fares were raised to the point where a profit could be made, nobody could afford to ride the rails except the king of the hobos.

We asked about the many old SP depots. Have they all disappeared such as ours?

Jay said that they have nearly all been torn down or given to historical societies in individual communities.

We had an excellent breakfast, in pleasant surroundings and we have been brought up to date on the railroad business.

THOUGHTS WHILE SHAVING

This is National Realtor Week. Realtors of Lompoc are now displaying a new "big, bold blue" letter "R" in their offices. It is the new trademark and identifies members of the National Association of Realtors ... Lompoc's Home Show is shaping up well for this coming weekend ... We've got a date for Wednesday night — "Back to School" night ... Those limping men you see today around town must be Vaqueros back from their annual ride ... We would like to thank the city electrical department for some prompt attention to our flickering lights in our home and throughout the neighborhood. The problem was repaired expeditiously ... We're glad to see Max Carrithers back to work at the Record after being out of action for a couple of months. He was hit by an auto. Max in the oldest Record employe in length of service ... We sure like the awnings put up on the Lilley Building. Adds a lot of class ... Safety note: Watch out for those storm drain culverts while driving around at night.

Common ground by Steve La Rue

The so-so Gatsby

If the motion picture The Great Gatsby, as many think, fails to capture the essence of Fitzgerald's truly great novel, then it's only because of a venerable aspect of print media that makes it as different an expressive form from film as Sir Lawrence Olivier is distinct from Robert Redford.

In print, even the poorest writer can readily project different points of view and, perhaps more importantly, etch in infinite detail what writer-journalist Tom Wolfe calls the "status life" of a character. Riches beyond counting await the film producer who can do the same, for none so far has.

Since Gatsby derives almost all of its power in print from character point of view and status life, and reverberates its resonant images from these, it's not surprising that the film version emerges looking formal and stilted, like a collection of gorgeous sets and mannequins, to use an important Fitzgeralds word in the novel, but really without a story.

The status life business works this way: say you want to portray in a brief character sketch, the fall of a once powerful businessman, who is now on his uppers but continues to make a pathetic attempt to keep up a fading self image. In writing, there are details about the man which would combine to mold this picture and trigger in the reader his own memory of similar people, either in life or in other literature. You would, for example, remind the reader of the man's stained, out-of-place ascot, of the dents in the Cadillac he persists in driving, of the man's two-day stubble, his memories of the flusher years, perhaps the alcoholic veins mapping his eyes and the pain in his mouth from decayed teeth he can no longer afford to repair.

All of these conspire to paint status life: where the character is with regards to himself and the world as betrayed by the way he looks, feels and acts.

To achieve a sense of this, the writer will subtly highlight the significant particulars, perhaps reaching back into the character's own memory for a while and also describing his thoughts, his pains his outlook.

But the movie doesn't exist that can either get into a character's skin (i.e. shift point of view) or paint status life nearly as well as print. To portray the falled tycoon, for example, a director would have to dress the actor in the stained ascot, make his eyes look bloodshot and give him a dented Cadillac and a two-day stubble. These particulars would be visible, of course, but, without the director's help, the audience has no way in interpreting them and could well even not notice them.

To call attention to and explain the things about a film character that etch in his soul, a director either has to have a voice narrating like a tour guide what the viewer himself is seeing, which is inadequate and quickly becomes heavy-handed, or he must have another character point out the telltale details by SAYING something. A second character, say, could be directed to approach the fallen tycoon and say, "Pardon me, but I see from the stain on your out-of-place ascot, your two-day stubble, bloodshot eyes and dented Cadillac that you're probably a tycoon unwillingly on the way down." This, of course, is like trimming fingernails with a pair of hedge shears and you can't keep it up and still hope to charge admission.

As difficult as this is for film, portrayal of our sample character's golden memories and his toothaches are even more difficult. Good producers compensate artfully for this frailty of film and stress the medium's superiority in portraying dialogue and purely visual action.

But The Great Gatsby isn't a western. And what we seem to have is a director swamped by inner character nuances and tell-tale particulars which he can only hope to communicate and stress by making the attire too gaudy, Mia Farrow too much of a porcelain doll, Gatsby's house more like a wedding cake than a mansion and Gatsby himself more like a blond android than a real human being who, as Fitzgerald had no trouble saying, "sprang from his platonic conception of himself" and tried as we all do for the precious green light at the end of the pier.
